11D10N : Wild lands of Scotland, the Faroe Islands and Iceland

Trip Overview

North Atlantic
In collaboration with Le Bellot, this exclusive expedition features environmental strategist, The most beautiful landscapes of Ireland, Scotland, the Faroe Islands and the coast of Iceland. Discovering cultural capital with a rich artistic and architectural heritage.

Embark on an 11-day PONANT expedition from Wild lands of Scotland, the Faroe Islands to Iceland

From Celtic shores to the volcanic boundaries of Iceland, this journey follows in the footsteps of a wild and magnetic North. In Ireland and Scotland, there is one natural wonder after another. Mysterious basalt rocks, windswept beaches, Highlands sculpted by the lochs and the mist continue to resonate to the rhythm of past legends. Further north, the Fareoe Islands archipelago reveals itself, between sheer summits, hanging meadows populated with sheep and rugged cliffs sheltering colonies of seabirds. Then, mineral, wild and dizzying Iceland — the perfect conclusion to this odyssey into the heart of Nordic landscapes, featuring fishing villages, mythology and grandiose nature.
